

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Thresholds for Every Application From Quanex

HOUSTON, Oct. 31, 2023 (NYSE: NX) — With our range of high-performance thresholds for every type of home or building, look no further than Quanex to meet your entryway threshold needs.

“We know different residential and commercial door applications have different needs when it comes to thresholds, and it’s our mission to help our customers identify an ideal, cost-effective solution every time,” said Larry Johnson, vice president of sales, North American Fenestration, Quanex.

Quanex’s threshold offerings include:

FirstStep™ Sill. A high-quality composite product for the general market, the FirstStep™ Sill from Quanex offers ideal performance for entry-level applications and beyond. Quanex’s proven excellence in threshold technology, including its fully customizable 5Y and 5C thresholds, led to the development of the FirstStep Sill to offer builders an ideal mix of quality, utility and value for numerous general market uses.

5C “Can-Am” Thresholds. Quanex’s 5C “Can-Am” Door Threshold is an NAFS-ready solution with ImperiSeal™ technology that meets strict Canadian requirements. Suited for harsh climate conditions, this door threshold is one of the most robust threshold offerings on the market and was designed specifically for high-end entry doors. This is the perfect door threshold seal solution for fabricators and door hangers in Canada where the climate is harsh and the codes are the most stringent.

Top-Drain Sill. Quanex’s Top-Drain Sill was developed by our engineers to reliably eliminate water for greater peace of mind. The double-layer seal technology is unique in the marketplace and provides manufacturers with a trustworthy option to deliver high-performance products for their customers. The Top-Drain Sill’s primary seal stops more than 99% of water at the entry before the second layer’s channeling system manages any remaining water without penetrating the aluminum sill deck.
