

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Discover Tricks and Treats From Quanex at GlassBuild America

HOUSTON, Oct. 31, 2023 (NYSE: NX) — On Halloween at GlassBuild America, dare to knock on the door of Quanex’s booth #1017 to discover tricks, treats and our comprehensive portfolio of high-performance solutions for your every challenge.

Find out why Quanex has been the global leader in fenestration components for decades. We make homes and buildings healthier, more comfortable and more sustainable and the lives of people who use them better. From insulating glass (IG) spacers to vinyl profiles, from door to window screens, one solution at a time, we’re striving to build a brighter future for our customers and communities everywhere. Through our partnership approach, we deliver resources to help our customers grow, improve quality and boost efficiencies in their businesses.

As a global manufacturing company primarily serving OEMs in the fenestration, cabinetry, solar, refrigeration and outdoor products markets, Quanex delivers high-performance components that are integral to the complete performance of end-use systems and applications. We’re more than just another manufacturing company. It means we are dedicated to:

- Improving the performance, sustainability and aesthetics of end products through continuous innovation.
- Helping customers achieve greater production efficiencies.
- Giving back to communities where we operate.
- Helping our employees learn, grow and thrive.

At Quanex, we are a community of talented employees working together as one source for quality building components. We’re helping to make your end products—and your businesses—better. Learn how at this year’s GlassBuild at booth #1017.
